

WILL "IKE" BOLT THE G. O. P.?

It had to come, and now it's here — the threat that the Eisenhower supporters will walk out of the Republican convention if the majority of the delegates go ahead and nominate the man of their choice, Senator Taft.

For months it has been just a question of how quickly the chickens of propaganda would come home to roost on the perch of reality, and now the time is here.

Ever since midwinter the Eisenhower camp-followers have been saying, and a dutiful chorus of biased papers, press services and air-wave commentators has been echoing, such assertions as these: that there is a "grassroots" movement afoot among the people for Eisenhower; that when he came back and personally threw his hat in the ring, there would be a tidal wave of support; that only a handful of Republican "die-hards" favored Taft.

More recently it has been sought frantically to make it appear that the race for delegates was a dead-heat, that the people wanted Eisenhower and only the "professionals" wanted Taft, and that Eisenhower was winning hands down wherever the steamrollers were kept locked up.

But you can't keep a good fact down, and the fact is that Taft has far more delegates than Eisenhower has, that he has won far more popular votes than Eisenhower did, and that the machinery of the Republican convention, reflecting these two realities, is in no mood to be "pushed around" by the Eisenhower pressure boys.

Now the tail is beginning to try to wag the dog, and the way this is being attempted is through that hoary and malicious old weapon from the political armaments—the rule-or-rule approach.

The shotguns have been produced. Notice is being served on the backbone of the Republican Party that unless the Eisenhower backers are allowed to run the show, they plan to "take a walk".

At least, that's the threat. In some cases, the hint is very, very delicate. Some of those involved are men of standing and integrity, and they know vicious and unfair tactics as well as the next, and are not proud of them.

Arthur Krock, political expert of the New York Times and a man who has been serving as a sort of bell-weather for the Eisenhower movement, was quite subtle.

In his column on June 10, which he titled "Some Items from a Political Reporter's Notebook," he artlessly related that back in 1912 the Teddy Roosevelt supporters resented the selection by the Taft delegates of Senator Root as the keynoter, and Mr. Krock intimates that this partisan keynoter was the moving impulse which led the Roosevelt delegates to bolt.

But much more direct threats can be found, if you watch for them. News stories bristle with intimations that the Eisenhower followers are seriously inclined to turn in against Taft if he is nominated.

Some writers have even put it right on the line that they think it would be foolish for the convention to turn down Eisenhower, when his followers will run out on the party, instead of turning down Taft, who can be relied upon to stick to the party which has so long been identified with himself and his ancestors.

All this calls for a showdown.

It is outrageous for the supporters of a man seeking the Republican nomination, and unsuccessful thus far in his drive, to attempt to bolster up their fading chances with any such intimidations and threats.

General Eisenhower, in his own keynote speech at Abilene, told the American people, in effect, that he would support any Republican who accepted the principles of the 1950 Republican pronouncement.

However, Eisenhower himself noted some exceptions in details, and presumably would agree that anyone else would be entitled to do the same, and the net effect is that the General put a condition on his support of the nominee, but a condition which cannot be defined.

This is too ambiguous to meet the needs of the situation.

General Eisenhower either intends to support Taft when the latter wins the nomination, as now appears virtually certain to be the prospect; or he intends not to support him. As to views, Senator Taft has defined his position on a thousand Federal issues by the most concrete fashion of all—by voting on them; and if Eisenhower is too poorly acquainted with recent national history to know where Taft stands and why, he is hopelessly ignorant on the essentials of the very assignment he has asked from the American people.

The time is here to demand that General Eisenhower say "yes or no" to the question of whether he will support Taft when and if he wins the nomination, and will use his influence on his followers to do the same.

The time is here also for the General to repudiate the covert threats being circulated so widely on his behalf—the shotgun strategy and ruin-or-ruin tactics attributed to his political advisers.

And it certainly is true that every one of the Eisenhower entourage ought to be singled out and asked point blank whether they have in mind to turn in with the Democrats after the convention, if Taft is nominated and cut the Republican party to pieces.

This widespread talk of a bolt being planned for the Republican convention, if the Taft delegates roll up a majority for the Ohio Senator, is something which can be stopped dead in its tracks if it has no substance.

Categorical pledges from the active supporters of General Eisenhower to stick to the party, regardless of whether their venture wins or fails, will silence the rumors overnight.

But if these reports are not denied, and if it is allowed to ride that numbers of Eisenhower's close backers are contemplating walking out on the Republican Party, then let the Republicans beware!

A group which threatens to destroy the party if they lose the nomination will assuredly do it little good if they happen to win!

FATHER'S DAY

Throughout the long stretch of human history it was Father who was predominant. Almost all ancient laws and customs gave him complete authority in domestic and governmental decisions. The few women who starred in history were the exceptions.

It has been only in the last century that marriage in more enlightened countries has become a partnership with the women gaining in influence. The custom of the husband making all the decisions was for the simple days. Modern life is so complex that there is need for two full-time workers on the family job.

Father has no easy assignment. Bread winning is accomplished under the strains and pressures that accompany the day's quickened tempo. So materialistic has the populace become that Father is likely to be under a stigma if he fails in the hard battle of bringing home the bacon, or brings less of it than the family thinks he should.

In addition, Father is under equal obligation with Mother to rear the children in the way they should go in an increasingly difficult environment.

Sentiment is directed mainly in Mother's direction. She predominates in poetry and song. But Father's Day is an occasion when it is possible to cast loose the emotional moorings which withhold from Father a decent amount of praise and give the old boy a pat on the back. He deserves it.

JUNE BRIDES

This newspaper's society department, struggling with the seasonal inundation of weddings, refuses to believe it, but there's a widespread slump in weddings. June is still the month of brides and roses, and both seem as numerous as ever. But statistics tell a different story.

In 1950 almost 1,700,000 couples were married. Last year there was a decline of 4 per cent. Marriage license bureaus throughout the United States report there will be still fewer weddings this year. The reason is that today's marriageable generation consists mostly of those who were born during the depression. In the decade after 1929 both marriage and birth rates were low.

"This is forever," murmurs the girl with stars in her eyes and the boy with perspiration on his forehead as they leave the altar. And most of them will keep that pledge. But statisticians interject a chilling note. Between 1890 and 1949 the divorce rate rose from .05 divorces per thousand of population annually to 2.7 per thousand.

A contrast between today's bride and her mother is that she is much more likely to go on working after marriage. Employed married women now outnumber employed single women. One of every four married women is employed, a higher percentage than in the peak war year of 1944.

town during the past week in order to secure compensation for the fire marshal who is elected by the county firemen. No law on the county books permits the county commissioners to appoint a fire marshal, but because of the importance of his job and because of their desire to aid the commissioners plan to designate the fire marshal as a deputy sheriff. To investigate fires only, so that he can receive pay for his work.

More than two years ago, when Thomas Stockham of Morrisville, active in the association, died, his widow laid aside $5,000 to establish a memorial. To date nothing definite has been done with the fund. Considerable discussion arose at the convention last night, though, about the adoption of a county-wide radio system to be used in conjunction with police and ambulance calls. Because so many facts were not available, a motion was carried to invite a radio consultant to come from Washington to the September meeting to apprise the firemen of detailed information about installation of radio hookups under the county fire companies.

Mr. Davis of the Bucks County Historical Society addressed the group briefly on the annual parade, which climaxes the convention and which is being held in Doylestown this afternoon.

The next quarterly meeting of the association will be in Pennel in September.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOHN BAKER, JR.
Pinch-Hitting for Joe Elbersen

The Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association held its monthly blue rock shoot on Sunday, at the club grounds, Route 13 west of Bath road. A fine group of shooters was on hand to participate, turning in some excellent scores. High gun went to William Quinn; second to M. Haines; third to A. Pfeifer. Scores were as follows: W. Quinn, 24; M. Haines, 24; A. Pfeifer, 23; Thompson, 23; McCue, 22; W. Wurz, 22; W. Doran, 22; B. Cassalia, 21; H. Ely, 21; H. Webster, 21; J. King, 20; Doubles event scores: W. Quinn, 20; B. Cassalia, 20; A. Pfeifer, 19; M. Haines, 19.

The club is anticipating a twilight shoot during July and August.

Had a rather busy, but pleasant time last week trying our luck at surf fishing for blues. On Wednesday evening a group of us from Bristol traveled to Barnegat Light, hoping to be on hand for a possible run of bluefish in the surf. The fish were not very cooperative but other than a little loss of sleep we did have a grand time. Several members of our party did hook into nice fish before dark but landed only one which weighed about 1 1/2 pounds to top the pool for first and largest fish for the evening. Two very fine looking deer were standing within 100 yards of one another along the highway in the Jersey Pines on our return trip home.

Then on last Saturday several of us who possess a Jersey license journeyed to North Jersey in quest of trout. Upon arriving at our favorite section of stream we were greeted with a very high, coffee colored stream. The prospects looked very discouraging and proved to be so during the early part of the day. About noon we worked down stream to a long stretch of quiet moving water which proved to be the answer to our prayers. This particular stretch of water accounted for 21 of the largest brown and rainbow trout taken during the entire season. The largest three fish taken weighed two pounds each, measuring in the neighborhood of 17 inches long. Several others measured 15 inches and the remainder at least a foot long. All fish were caught on garden hackle, fished very deep and slow to imitate the natural drift of a bait.

One member of the party has a favorite fish in a favorite hole that actually cleaned his bait—can of three pounds of garden hackle several weeks ago and on Saturday this same fish stole about a dozen helminths from him and never once tasted the hook. My prediction is "if this fish does not die from indigestion he will weigh at least 18 pounds before this season ends."

Nova Scotia, that small piece of land which juts out into the North Atlantic off the coast of Canada, lays claim to several world records. Nova Scotia has the highest tides in the world. These occur at Cobequid Bay, the far reaches of Minas Basin, the entrance range of Burntcoat Head during July and August runs from 46 feet to 90 feet. These tides can be witnessed at many points along the Fundy Coast. Nova Scotia also holds every world record for bluefin tuna except two in addition to supplying excellent broodbill swordfish fishing. The annual international tuna cup matches are held at Wedgeport, N. S. Their forests harbor more white tailed deer per square mile than anywhere else on the continent.

A good substitute for cleaning spinners and spoons while fishing is cigarette or cigar ashes applied with a damp cloth. Reports from the extreme southern part of Jersey report large catches of sea bass off Cape May and Wildwood providing very large catches of porgies. Waretown and Barnegat Light are starting to produce some summer flounder; one brought to net weighed 8 pounds, 3 ounces.

The Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association, Inc., has had many requests for instructions in handling fishing tackle, so they have set a date to give instructions on handling your outfit. The date set is Sunday, June 15th, from 12 Noon to three p. m. With bass season just two weeks away we will have some of the association's top bass fishermen and casters to show you what it is all about. This will not only be for fresh water fishing but for salt water, too. We will show you how to get out there where the big ones are. We will have surf fishermen, bait fishermen, fly fishermen and fishermen to take care of showing you how to rig your line for any type of fishing.

Bring your fishing gear and take advantage of the opportunity. There will, also, be a casting practice at the lake on Sunday, so the boys can get ready for the Middle Atlantic Casting Tournament which will be held the 22nd of June at Willow Grove. Come on out and sharpen your eyes up.

HAWKS WIN AND HOLD LEAD AGAIN IN BOYS LEAGUE

To The Employees of Hunter Manufacturing Corp.

We have individually expressed to you our regret that the contract negotiations between your Management and your chosen representatives of the United Automobile Workers, C. I. O., were not completed, differences unresolved and ended with the precipitous action of work stoppage on May 23rd. We know by careful canvass of your group that the majority of you are extremely unhappy with the decision that deprived you of your chosen livelihood and the Company of its immediate forward progress.

We strongly take issue with your irresponsible and inexperienced counselors, who by a highly vocal minority, precipitated the decision by which you currently feel yourselves to be bound and which unalterably causes you to lose a minimum of $52.00 to a maximum of $92.00 per week, not including overtime pay, which cannot possibly be regained in these circumstances.

The issues in dispute appear to your Management to be so illogical in their concept that no responsible Management could have justifiably gone further than we did to attempt to meet the demands made upon us.

Now, after three weeks of a foregone fruitless work stoppage, we suggest to you that the light of pure reason should clearly indicate to you that this senseless bickering between yourselves should end.

The gates of the plant will be open to you on Monday, June 16th, at 7:30 A. M. Return at that time and we agree, as responsible people should, to live up to our previous commitments and will again meet with a committee of your choice. In such circumstances we will, to the best of our ability, continue to work as in the past to make your existence fruitful and happy.

The alternatives from any view that we can take certainly do not appear to be pleasant nor profitable, especially when a wage proposal ranging from $1.30 to $2.30 per hour is considered.

To Our Neighbors and The Merchants of Bristol

We are sincerely distressed that the neighborhood economy should be disrupted and that there should be a cessation, even for a few days, of the substantial payroll of Hunter Manufacturing Corp., most of which is spent in the community. We point with some pride to the 13 millions of dollars that we have contributed to date to the neighborhood economy through our continuity of payroll.

We would regret exceedingly if any of the commitments our people have with you are not met and assure you that the commitments mentioned can be properly reinstated and fulfilled by the steady employment we proffer above.

To Our Customers:

We are very grateful for your forbearance and regretful for the delay to the delivery of our products which has been occasioned by the poorly advised action of our employee group. It appears that basically good, reasonably intelligent people may be misled from time to time.

The creeping paralysis of strikes and work stoppages now confronting the nation becomes a very real and poignant factor when it affects goods or equipment which you personally desire.

Time cures a lot of ills but once lost is never regained and the delay to the delivery of your merchandise will be overcome as rapidly as our total energies will permit.

Faithfully yours,
Hunter Manufacturing Corp.
Charles E. Hunter,
President.

WILL "IKE" BOLT THE G. O. P.?

It had to come, and now it's here — the threat that the Eisenhower supporters will walk out of the Republican convention if the majority of the delegates go ahead and nominate the man of their choice, Senator Taft.

For months it has been just a question of how quickly the chickens of propaganda would come home to roost on the perch of reality, and now the time is here.

Ever since midwinter the Eisenhower camp-followers have been saying, and a dutiful chorus of biased papers, press services and air-wave commentators has been echoing, such assertions as these: that there is a "grassroots" movement afoot among the people for Eisenhower; that when he came back and personally threw his hat in the ring, there would be a tidal wave of support; that only a handful of Republican "die-hards" favored Taft.

More recently it has been sought frantically to make it appear that the race for delegates was a dead-heat, that the people wanted Eisenhower and only the "professionals" wanted Taft, and that Eisenhower was winning hands down wherever the steamrollers were kept locked up.

But you can't keep a good fact down, and the fact is that Taft has far more delegates than Eisenhower has, that he has won far more popular votes than Eisenhower did, and that the machinery of the Republican convention, reflecting these two realities, is in no mood to be "pushed around" by the Eisenhower pressure boys.

Now the tail is beginning to try to wag the dog, and the way this is being attempted is through that hoary and malicious old weapon from the political armaments—the rule-or-rule approach.

The shotguns have been produced. Notice is being served on the backbone of the Republican Party that unless the Eisenhower backers are allowed to run the show, they plan to "take a walk".

At least, that's the threat.

In some cases, the hint is very, very delicate. Some of those involved are men of standing and integrity, and they know vicious and unfair tactics as well as the next, and are not proud of them.

Arthur Krock, political expert of the New York Times and a man who has been serving as a sort of bell-weather for the Eisenhower movement, was quite subtle.

In his column on June 10, which he titled "Some Items from a Political Reporter's Notebook," he artlessly related that back in 1912 the Teddy Roosevelt supporters resented the selection by the Taft delegates of Senator Root as the keynoter, and Mr. Krock intimates that this partisan keynoter was the moving impulse which led the Roosevelt delegates to bolt.

But much more direct threats can be found, if you watch for them. News stories bristle with intimations that the Eisenhower followers are seriously inclined to turn in against Taft if he is nominated.

Some writers have even put it right on the line that they think it would be foolish for the convention to turn down Eisenhower, when his followers will run out on the party, instead of turning down Taft, who can be relied upon to stick to the party which has so long been identified with himself and his ancestors.

All this calls for a showdown. It is outrageous for the supporters of a man seeking the Republican nomination, and unsuccessful thus far in his drive, to attempt to bolster up their fading chances with any such intimidations and threats.

General Eisenhower, in his own keynote speech at Abilene, told the American people, in effect, that he would support any Republican who accepted the principles of the 1950 Republican pronouncement.

However, Eisenhower himself noted some exceptions in details, and presumably would agree that anyone else would be entitled to do the same, and the net effect is that the General put a condition on his support of the nominee, but a condition which cannot be defined.

This is too ambiguous to meet the needs of the situation.

General Eisenhower either intends to support Taft when the latter wins the nomination, as now appears virtually certain to be the prospect; or he intends not to support him. As to views, Senator Taft has defined his position on a thousand Federal issues by the most concrete fashion of all—by voting on them; and if Eisenhower is too poorly acquainted with recent national history to know where Taft stands and why, he is hopelessly ignorant on the essentials of the very assignment he has asked from the American people.

The time is here to demand that General Eisenhower say "yes or no" to the question of whether he will support Taft when and if he wins the nomination, and will use his influence on his followers to do the same.

The time is here also for the General to repudiate the covert threats being circulated so widely on his behalf—the shotgun strategy and ruin-or-ruin tactics attributed to his political advisers.

And it certainly is true that every one of the Eisenhower entourage ought to be singled out and asked point blank whether they have in mind to turn in with the Democrats after the convention, if Taft is nominated and cut the Republican party to pieces.

This widespread talk of a bolt being planned for the Republican convention, if the Taft delegates roll up a majority for the Ohio Senator, is something which can be stopped dead in its tracks if it has no substance.

Categorical pledges from the active supporters of General Eisenhower to stick to the party, regardless of whether their venture wins or fails, will silence the rumors overnight.

But if these reports are not denied, and if it is allowed to ride that numbers of Eisenhower's close backers are contemplating walking out on the Republican Party, then let the Republicans beware!

A group which threatens to destroy the party if they lose the nomination will assuredly do it little good if they happen to win!

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOHN BAKER, JR.
Pinch-Hitting for Joe Elbertson

The Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association held its monthly blue rock shoot on Sunday, at the club grounds, Route 13 west of Bath road. A fine group of shooters was on hand to participate, turning in some excellent scores. High gun went to William Quinn, second to M. Haines; third to A. Pfeifer. Scores were as follows: W. Quinn, 24; M. Haines, 24; A. Pfeifer, 24; Thompson, 23; McCue, 22; W. Wurz, 22; W. Doran, 22; B. Cassalia, 21; H. Ely, 21; H. Webster, 21; J. King, 20; D. Haines, 19.

The club is anticipating a twilight shoot during July and August.

Had a rather busy, but pleasant time last week trying our luck at surf fishing for blues. On Wednesday evening a group of us from Bristol traveled to Barnegat Light, hoping to be on hand for a possible run of bluefish in the surf. The fish were not very cooperative but other than a little loss of sleep we did have a grand time. Several members of our party did hook into nice fish before dark but landed only one which weighed about 1 1/2 pounds. To top the pool for first and largest fish for the evening. Two very fine looking blues were caught within 100 yards of one another along the highway in the Jersey Pines on our return trip home.

Then on last Saturday several of us who possess a Jersey license journeyed to North Jersey in quest of trout. Upon arriving at our favorite section of stream we were greeted with a very high, coffee colored stream. The prospects looked very discouraging and proved to be so during the early part of the day. About noon we worked down stream to a long stretch of quiet moving water which proved to be the answer to our prayers. This particular stretch of water accounted for 21 of the largest brown and rainbow trout taken during the entire season. The largest three fish taken weighed two pounds each, measuring 15 inches in length. Several others measured 15 inches for the remainder of the season. All fish were caught in the neighborhood of 15 inches, fished very deep and slow to imitate the natural drift of a bait.

One member of the party has a favorite fish in a favorite hole that actually cleaned his bait—can of three pounds of garden huckle several weeks ago and on Saturday this same fish stole about a dozen hellemites from him and never once tasted the hook. My prediction is "If this fish does not die from indigestion he will weigh at least 18 pounds before this season ends."

Nova Scotia, that small piece of land which juts out into the North Atlantic off the coast of Canada, lays claim to several world records. Nova Scotia has the highest tides in the world. These occur at Cobequid Bay, the far reaches of Minas Basin, the entrance range of Burin Head during July and August runs from 46 feet to 50 feet. These tides can be witnessed at many points along the Fundy Coast. Nova Scotia also holds every world record for bluefin tuna except two in addition to supplying excellent broodstock for the annual international tuna cup matches are held at Wedgeport, N. S. Their forests harbor more white tailed deer per square mile than anywhere else on the continent.

A good substitute for cleaning spinners and spoons while fishing is cigarette or cigar ashes applied with a damp cloth.

Reports from the extreme southern part of Jersey report large catches of sea bass off Cape May and Wildwood providing very large catches of porgies.

Warehousing and Barnegat Light are starting to produce some summer flounder; one brought to net weighed 5 pounds, 3 ounces.

The Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association, Inc., has had many requests for instructions in handling fishing tackle, so they have set a date to give instructions on handling your outfit. The date set is Sunday, June 15th, from 12 Noon to three p. m. With bass season just two weeks away we will have some of the association's top bass fishermen and casters to show you what it is all about. This will not only be for fresh water fishing but for salt water, too. We will show you how to get out there where the big ones are. We will have surf fishermen, bait fishermen, fly fishermen and fishermen to take care of showing you how to rig your line for any type of fishing.

Bring your fishing gear and take advantage of the opportunity. There will, also, be a casting practice at the lake on Sunday, so the boys can get ready for the Middle Atlantic Casting Tournament which will be held the 22nd of June at Willow Grove. Come on out and sharpen your eyes up.

the top scholastic averages in the highest grade in the school. As retiring president of the P. T. A., John Packard made the presentations to Betty Jane Taylor and George Kemmerer, 10th grade. Next year the trophies will go to 11th graders, but it cannot be won by the same students.

By Mel Graff

To The Employees of Hunter Manufacturing Corp.

We have individually expressed to you our regret that the contract negotiations between your Management and your chosen representatives of the United Automobile Workers, C. I. O., were not completed, differences unresolved and ended with the precipitous action of work stoppage on May 23rd. We know by careful canvass of your group that the majority of you are extremely unhappy with the decision that deprived you of your chosen livelihood and the Company of its immediate forward progress.

We strongly take issue with your irresponsible and inexperienced counselors, who by a highly vocal minority, precipitated the decision by which you currently feel yourselves to be bound and which unalterably causes you to lose a minimum of $52.00 to a maximum of $92.00 per week, not including overtime pay, which cannot possibly be regained in these circumstances.

The issues in dispute appear to your Management to be so illogical in their concept that no responsible Management could have justifiably gone further than we did to attempt to meet the demands made upon us.

Now, after three weeks of a foregone fruitless work stoppage, we suggest to you that the light of pure reason should clearly indicate to you that this senseless bickering between yourselves should end.

The gates of the plant will be open to you on Monday, June 16th, at 7:30 A. M. Return at that time and we agree, as responsible people should, to live up to our previous commitments and will again meet with a committee of your choice. In such circumstances we will, to the best of our ability, continue to work as in the past to make your existence fruitful and happy.

The alternatives from any view that we can take certainly do not appear to be pleasant nor profitable, especially when a wage proposal ranging from $1.30 to $2.30 per hour is considered.

To Our Neighbors and The Merchants of Bristol

We are sincerely distressed that the neighborhood economy should be disrupted and that there should be a cessation, even for a few days, of the substantial payroll of Hunter Manufacturing Corp., most of which is spent in the community. We point with some pride to the 13 millions of dollars that we have contributed to date to the neighborhood economy through our continuity of payroll.

We would regret exceedingly if any of the commitments our people have with you are not met and assure you that the commitments mentioned can be properly reinstated and fulfilled by the steady employment we proffer above.

To Our Customers:

We are very grateful for your forbearance and regretful for the delay to the delivery of our products which has been occasioned by the poorly advised action of our employee group. It appears that basically good, reasonably intelligent people may be misled from time to time.

The creeping paralysis of strikes and work stoppages now confronting the nation becomes a very real and poignant factor when it affects goods or equipment which you personally desire.

Time cures a lot of ills but once lost is never regained and the delay to the delivery of your merchandise will be overcome as rapidly as our total energies will permit.

Faithfully yours,

Hunter Manufacturing Corp.

Charles E. Hunter,

President.
